

Employee Contributions to a United States Retirement Plan for 2011 – Temporary Assignments

Complete this form if you are temporarily working in Canada and you continue to participate in a qualifying retirement plan offered by your employer in the United States (U.S.). You may be able to claim a deduction for the contributions you made to the U.S. plan on your Canadian income tax and benefit return. Common qualifying U.S. retirement plans include 401(k) arrangements. For a complete list of qualifying U.S. retirement plans, go to www.fin.gc.ca/treaties-conventions/us\_annexb-eng.asp (paragraph 10).

Notes

If you are a Canadian resident who commutes to the U.S. to perform employment services, and you are a member of a retirement plan of your employer in the U.S., see Form RC268, Employee Contributions to a United States Retirement Plan for 2011 – Cross-border Commuters.

If you contributed to an employer-sponsored pension plan or to a social security arrangement in a country other than the U.S., see Form RC269, Employee Contributions to a Foreign Pension Plan or Social Security Arrangement for 2011 – Non-United States Plans or Arrangements.

You can deduct your contributions to your U.S. retirement plan on your Canadian income tax and benefit return if all of the following conditions are met:

- The remuneration you received for the services you performed as an employee in Canada is taxable in Canada.
- Just before you began performing services in Canada, you were participating in the U.S. plan and you were not a resident of Canada.
- The contributions are attributable to employment services performed in Canada and were made during the period you performed the services.
- You are not accruing benefits in, or contributing to, a registered pension plan, deferred profit-sharing plan, or registered retirement savings plan (RRSP) in Canada for the period during which you performed the services.
- You have not performed services in Canada for the same employer (or a related employer) for more than 60 of the 120 months preceding 2011.

Do not attach any statements of your contributions to your return, but keep them in case we ask to see them.

Report all amounts in Canadian dollars. To get the average exchange rates, go to www.cra.gc.ca/exchangerates.

Calculating your deduction

Amount of your 2011 contributions to the United States (U.S.) retirement plan		1
Amount of contributions that would qualify for tax relief in the U.S. if you were a resident of the U.S. and performed your services in the U.S.		2
Enter the amount from line 1 or line 2, whichever is less .	5124	3
Add the amount from line 3 to the amount on line 207 of your return.

Pension adjustment

If you receive a T4 slip, your employer will have to calculate and report a pension adjustment (PA) to the CRA. Enter the total of the amounts shown in box 52 of all your T4 slips on line 206 of your return. The PA will reduce your RRSP contribution room for 2012.

If you do not receive a slip showing your PA, calculate and report it as follows:

Your resident compensation of 2011*	5122		4
Rate	x	18%
Multiply line 4 by 18%.	=		5
Money purchase limit of 2011		22,970   00	6
Enter the amount from line 5 or line 6, whichever is less .		5123	7
Add the amount from line 7 to the amount on line 206 of your return.

Note
* Your resident compensation for 2011 is the total of your salaries, wages, and other amounts from your employment with the employer in question, excluding amounts that are exempt from income tax in Canada by virtue of the Canada-U.S. Tax Convention.
